Enclosed Flame Series

Enclosed Flame Wellhead Flare System

Designed from worldwide experience.

With unparalleled experience in complex flaring applications, Zeeco developed the Enclosed Wellhead Flare System. Our simple and low maintenance system provides smokeless, high efficiency combustion without field operator attendance or adjustment requirements. Our flare system is designed for use with tank batteries, heater treaters, vapor recovery towers and more. With advantages including no visible flame and quiet operation, Zeeco's Enclosed Wellhead Flare System is ideal for urban locations.

NO moving parts.

Zeeco's unique design eliminates the need for unnecessary maintenance and burdensome air blowers. Our proprietary flare tip promotes air mixing within the combustion zone to eliminate any air-starved regions within the flame, preventing smoke formation.

Meet regulatory requirements.

Zeeco's Enclosed Wellhead Flare System is designed to meet applicable regulatory and environmental requirements as defined by our customers.

Simple skid-mounted design.

Pre-assembled on two small skids, installation time and expenses are minimized. Our pre-spooled interconnecting wiring dramatically reduces the potential for mistakes in assembly.

Multiple options available.

Zeeco offers several options for our Enclosed Wellhead Flare System including sample ports for testing, knockout drums, flame or detonation arrestors, refractory lining, and more.
